1. Mission. The 480th Intelligence Group (480 IG) provides tailored intelligence products and services to the United States Air Force worldwide. It applies intelligence data to air warfighter-specific requirements. The 480 IG is a subordinate organization of the National Air Intelligence Center (NAIC).

2. Command. The 480 IG Commander:

- 2.1. Is responsible to the NAIC Commander.
- 2.2. Commands the forces of the 480 IG to include the 20th Intelligence Squadron, 27th Intelligence Squadron, and the 36th Intelligence Squadron.
- 2.3. Upon activation by the President of the United States, commands the forces of the 123d Intelligence Squadron, Arkansas Air National Guard.

3. Responsibilities. The 480 IG:

- 3.1. Provides intelligence application products for targeting and air operations.
- 3.2. Provides mission planning products and support.
- 3.3. Provides aircrew training and exercise products and support.
- 3.4. Performs evaluations of emerging intelligence systems, technology, and applications.
- 3.5. Manages the Intelligence Data Base Distribution Host for the Combat Intelligence System.

3.6. Provides IDHS (Intelligence Data Handling System) and secure communications system support for Headquarters Air Combat Command.
